Workflow FAQs

How is the development budget created?

A: Your development budget is created using your testing matrix and final wireframes. We dissect each component of the system and determine the total number of hours it will take to develop. Based on that estimate, we'll provide a project and milestone budget.

Do we have to develop the entire product at once?

A: The simple answer is no. Since we understand what the entire system is going to look like, we can break it up in pieces to fit the budget you'd like to work with.
